As a pioneer in the production and recording of songs for worship, Asaph Borba has been teaching on worship for more than three decades throughout his native country of Brazil and in more than fifty other nations. Asaph's message is that true worship is not based in music but in the life of the worshipper. Many people think that what God desires from us is a collection of dogmas and actions—music, festivals, and celebrations—that will be exchanged for His blessings. God wants so much more than that.

To the Father, the most essential thing is being rather than doing. Worship is a way of life, not a musical style. God is interested in our heart and its motivation far beyond any action or practice. Love is the language and essence of God. Worship occurs when one's faith is transformed into love. Only then do we become truthful, authentic, and transparent before the One who sees all. And that is true worship.

AUTHOR BIO Born into a Christian home in Brazil, Asaph Borba became involved with drugs as a teenager. At the age of sixteen, Asaph experienced Christ and eventually became a well-known worship minister in Brazil and worldwide. For more than three decades, he has composed many songs that have had a great impact on his generation. He lives in Porto Alegre, Brazil, with his wife, Lígia Rosana, and his children, Aurora and André.
