Welcome to the gap—a messy but miraculous patch of real estate that lies between your current state of reality and the location of your destiny. Traversing that gap is a vital step in every human journey. But how does one navigate the unknown?

Many Christians have been taught that God controls everything about their lives. He doesn't. God never handed you a script to memorize and follow. Instead, He created you with the capacity to invoke, evoke, and provoke your personal destiny. That's right—you have all you need to call your destiny into being.

Through LifeQuest, pastor and life coach Mark Chironna will guide you to chart a course for your life's journey by helping you to ask the right questions, encouraging you to explore the perilous gap, and showing you that change is not your enemy. This is your journey, and you get only one. Don't waste another minute of it. Get started on your quest today!
